Little Fun Palace Nomadic School 2023

Open Call

Contact:

Veronica Franchi + info@oht.tn.it + www.oht.art

Little Fun Palace is back as a Nomadic School questioning how space produces reality. Aiming to experiment possibilities of learning and sharing-knowledge around Performing Arts. The Nomadic School considers space and landscape as aesthetic territories that have political implications without using the words of politics. It problematizes the Performing Arts by interacting with other disciplines such as Natural Sciences, Architecture and Anthropology. Through workshops, experiments, walks, meetings and micro-performances, participants will be encouraged to reconsider their centrality and periphery within a shared space such as the stage.

Where

Little Fun Palace Nomadic School takes place at 1.900 m above sea level. This year the caravan will be in Val di Non, in the Adamello Brenta Nature Park. Taking place in the middle of the Alpine landscape, life and study will not be separated and the participants will camp at Malga Termoncello; most activities as well as meals will be organised in the open air. Life in the mountains is marked by the weather and characterised by essential services (overnight stay in tents, simple shared meals, limited use of water). By totally immersing itself in the alpine landscape, Little Fun Palace Nomadic School intends to leave behind the representational distance cultivated by academic and artistic institutions.

When

From June 15 to June 26, 2023. Full-time participation
